OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY
DECS MEMORANDUM
No. 201, s, 1998

INTEGRATING REPUBLIC ACT 8353, THE ANTI-RAPE LAW OF 1997
IN THE BASIC EDUCATION CURRICULUM

To: Regional Directors
Schools Superintendents
District Supervisors

1. Violence against women is a pervasive phenomenon in many countries around the world. Women who suffered violence and abuse are left to deal with their traumatic experiences often without the support of their families. In fact, victims are invariably faced with social stigma, ostracism and cruel scrutiny by the society they live in. It is said that violence against women arises from unequal gender relations where male control over women is a matter of right as dictated by societies' norms and institutions. A woman is at once at risk and vulnerable to violence simply because of her gender. Ways to prevent/minimize violence against women have been instigated by both government and nongovernment organizations, notably the General Recommendation 19 on Violence Against Women from a UN Committee on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW), in 1992.
2. In view of the increasing incidence of violence against Filipino women, particularly domestic abuse, sexual harassment, rape and others, President Ramos has signed Republic Act 8353, the new Anti-Rape Law of 1997. The new law is a landmark legislature which directly addresses sexual abuse and violence among Filipino women. Details on the law are inclosed.
3. To support the advocacy campaign for the Anti-Rape Law, all schools are enjoined to integrate appropriate topics of the law in such subject areas as Edukasyong Pantahanan at Pangkabuhayan (EPP), Sibika at Kultura and HEKASI in the elementary level and History in the secondary level, among others whenever applicable. Schools are also encouraged to promote awareness among parents and community members on the Anti-Rape Law through various school-based activities such as PTA meetings and the like.
4. The integration of the Anti-Rape Law in the abovementioned subjects aims to promote a continuous preventive education program specifically for young men, women and children on Violence Against Women (VAW).
5. Immediate and extensive dissemination of this Memorandum is enjoined.

THE ANTI-RAPE LAW OF 1997

Republic Act 8353

On 30 September, President Fidel Ramos signed Republic Act 8353, the new Anti-Rape Law of 1997. It is a landmark legislation for Filipino women, replacing a law that has long ceased to address their experiences of sexual abuse and violence. While it is no guarantee that women are now safe from rape, it nevertheless is another battle won in their war against it.

Rape is a crime against person...

The new law redefines rape as a crime against person from a crime against chastity. This means rape violates a woman's very being, and not just her virginity or purity. Previously, it was difficult for "unchaste" women such as prostituted women, nonvirgins or those who have an active sex life, for example, to prove that rape was committed against them. With the new law, a woman's chastity or her sexual life is not an issue anymore.

As a crime against person, rape is also amended from a private to a public offense.

The victim is not the only one who can file a complaint.

Basically anyone who knows about the violation can file a case on behalf of the victim. As a public crime, the prosecution of a rape case may continue even if the victim drops the case or pardons the offender.

Rape is committed when ...

- a. A man has sexual intercourse with a woman under these conditions:
 - i) through force, threat or intimidation;
 - ii) when the victim is deprived of reason or is unconscious;
 - iii) through fraudulent machination or grave abuse of authority; and
 - iv) when the victim is under 12 years of age or is demented, even if none of the above conditions are present.

A rape victim may present as evidence...

any overt act manifesting resistance against rape in any degree or in any situation where she is incapable of giving valid consent.

Rape is punished by ...

imprisonment ranging from prison mayor, or from six to 12 years, to death.

A rape offender is given the death penalty when ...

- a. the victim is under 18 years old and the offender is a parent, stepparent, guardian, or a relative within the third degree, or the common law spouse of the victim's parent;
- b. the victim is under the custody of the police, the military, or other law enforcement and penal institutions;
- c. the rape is committed in full view of the spouse, parent, children, or relatives;
- d. the victim is a religious and is known to the offender as such;
- e. the victim is a child below seven years;
- f. the offender knows he is sick with HIV/AIDS or other sexually transmitted disease and the virus or disease is transmitted to the victim;
